Of Cows and Cattle

There will be two September Focused Fire Newsletters. The scheduled issue is still in process, but the deadline for the newsletter is now. Visiting a farm, our youngest adult daughter inadvertently provided a solution of how to meet the deadline and have a little fun. She had some interesting snapshots of cows, but one photograph really stood out. It represented an opportunity to poke some fun at our government. When asked if I could use the photo, her first response was "yes." Given further details on content, she declared they were just cute innocent cows, and the photograph was not available for political purposes.

Now emotionally committed to a humorous interim newsletter, I took a series of photographs, serving the purpose while allowing her cows and superior photos to retain their integrity. Perhaps she will share the very cool photograph on Facebook.

Enjoy my cows.

BUT NO DOER

Something stinks? Is it still the economy, or what?

I've got a pen and
I've got a phone.

The barriers are just too big. No way we can get anything done.

You call them blood sucking flies

I call them lobbyists

The Herd

We the citizens and taxpayers keep voting the same politicians into office, and they never fail to disappoint. Pogo was right. "We has met the enemy, and he is us!"
