

RESPECT LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Focused Fire Newsletter - Copyright © Affinity Systems LLC August 2019 Issue 75

The majority of my newsletters are about change, but this one is personal.

Words and actions have the power to incite order or chaos.

Order is required for people to exist in harmony, enjoy normal lives, and raise their families in a safe environment. This graphic is from the presentation of a system I am working on, illustrating the barriers between order and chaos. To ensure the safety of our children, grandchildren, neighbors-all of us in our communities requires order. Order provides predictability and gives us the confidence to invest in the future. Chaos, or disorder, is part of every system, upsetting or destroying the benefits of order. Controlled change, at the edge of chaos, is always required and occurs naturally or by intent. The graph illustrates how thin and fragile the barrier is. One of them is law enforcement. Breaking this barrier creates anarchy, or social disorder, and makes everyone less safe.

Following is one of the consequences of broken safety barriers.

Our Community Mourns

April 2017, A shooter in our community killed four citizens.

We attended the funeral for Detective Weiland. Watching his twelve-year-old daughter deliver the eulogy broke our hearts and took the discussion about law enforcement to a new level. What people say and do have real-world consequences.

Current

In New York City, young thugs are throwing water on police officers who are restricted from action by the mayor and legislators. The police provide protection to officeholders, who then throw the police under the bus; subjecting them to situations that are more dangerous.

Some political candidates, running for president and other high jobs, want to eliminate ICE and other immigration enforcement agencies. Many of these candidates also advocate for taking citizens' guns.

My first thought is "what hypocrites." The second is "stupidity on display," using a political theatre as a stage to sell socialism. They advocate for a dangerous agenda leading from social order to eliminating safety barriers, putting our communities at physical and economic risk.

ALL politicians take an oath to uphold the laws passed within our democratic process. Legislators, in theory, could be impeached for actions breaking those laws. If they dislike the consequences of the laws, they have the power to rewrite them. If there is internal legislative opposition, they are paid to resolve conflicts with each other. That is their job. Blaming law enforcement for their failure is not part of their job and not what we pay them to do. Creating a dangerous environment is also not a part of their jobs.

Law enforcement's job is "enforcing" the laws enacted by these same legislators. They are not empowered to choose which ones. They are responsible for how they do their jobs, and most do it with pride, integrity, commitment, courage, and fortunately for us, do it well.

I support law enforcement and all emergency personnel. I back the doers, not the talkers.

Best regards,

Wayne L Staley

Affinity Systems LLC

<http://www.competitiveamerica.us/>

wstaley@competitiveamerica.us

ERP-Lessons Learned, Structured Process

ERP has grown more complicated, robust, and expensive to purchase and install. Comprehensive systems offer advanced approaches and in some cases, greatly simplified solutions. These include cloud applications, modularity, or returning to the simple functionality of MRP.

ERP/MRP, like manufacturing, presents exciting new applications for achieving excellence. This book provides a structured process to guide you on the journey to successful implementations.

Purchase from-

<https://www.amazon.com/ERP-Lessons-Learned->